

FAIR USE

CERTAIN POPULATION NUMBERS IN NORTH AMERICA

13 Colonies – 1732

<https://worldpopulationreview.com/states/thirteen-colonies>

In 1732, the 13 colonies were complete. As the colonies were established throughout the 17th and 18th centuries, the population grew immensely, starting at just 2,000 people and growing to over 2 million.

Ohio – 1800

<https://www.census.gov/newsroom/stories/ohio-admission-anniversary.html>

The 1800 census population for Michigan includes the population of a small area in present-day Ohio. The 1800 population of the legally established Northwest Territory (of which Ohio was a part) was 45,916.

New Jersey – 1702

<https://www.newjerseyalmanac.com/population-historical-overview.html>

In 1702, New Jersey's population was estimated at about 10,000, Pennsylvania's at 15,000, and New York's at 20,000. In a 1737 census, the population was recorded as 43,588 whites and 2,951 slaves.

New York – 1700

<https://attractionpass.com/attraction-passes/new-york-city-a-history-throughout-the-centuries>

“By the 18th century, New Amsterdam had been captured by the English and renamed New York in honor of the Duke of York. In 1700, the population was roughly 5,000, and it was growing quite quickly. By the close of the 18th century, the population had grown twelvefold, to around 60,000 residents”.

Pennsylvania – 1702

<https://www.newjerseyalmanac.com/population-historical-overview.html>

In 1702, New Jersey's population was estimated at about 10,000, Pennsylvania's at 15,000, and New York's at 20,000. In a 1737 census, the population was recorded as 43,588 whites and 2,951 slaves.

Virginia – 1607 – 1625

<http://www.virginiaplaces.org/population/>

“At least 6,000 people went to Virginia between 1607 and 1624. In 1625, there were 1,200 people there. Colonization did not move inland initially”.